List of webpages

- Background

The background page is intended to be the default page/home page of the website. This is the first page visitors will see when visiting this website. This page will have background information about the creator/subject of the website, that being me, Mr. Gordon. It will include information such as name, age, and a brief description of myself among other relevant information.

- Professional

The purpose of this webpage is to provide a look into my professional life. It outlines the mission and vision statements that guide me in pursuing my future career. You'll also find insights into my potential career path, along with the qualifications and skills needed for success in that field. Additionally, a copy of my resume will be available, showing my current qualifications.

- Personality

This page explores my personality, highlighting my strongest trait, emotion and favourite hobby. It also showcases my favourite fictional hero as well as my favorite scene involving this hero and the lessons and meaning I've drawn from that scene.

- Personal Development

This webpage provides a summary of key lessons from chapters 4 to 7 of the book "Twelve Pillars", and highlights ways in which I can apply the lessons learnt towards my personal life. This page also highlights the skills I've acquired so far while doing my degree.

- Storyboard

This page contains an embedded document that showcases the entire website in the form of a wireframe. This document also features a brief description of each webpage and their purpose as well as the theme of the site, features and also the hosting link.

- References

This page includes all the sources of information used throughout the website stated in APA format.

Theme of the Website

The theme of the website will be a combination of my favorite colour and the colour that I think matches best with it, those being blue and black respectively. The website will have a blue navigation bar that will contrast well with the black background, which is a photo that mimics the blue dark bright sky. Therefore, in actuality, the background has a dark blue tint with white dots to mimic stars. Each paragraph and photo will be enclosed by a thin blue border, guiding the user's focus within the frame for optimal engagement with the content. Photos that relate to the subject of the website will be used to better grasp the reader's attention as well as subconsciously create vivid imagery of the content being viewed.

Features used

Below are the features used on the website:

- Images – images were sourced online from websites. These images related to the subject of the page that they were being featured on. Personal images from my gallery were used of myself as well.
- Videos – videos related to the subject of the page that they were on were sourced and embedded within the website. Some were stock videos that were set to loop and were muted. A YouTube video was embedded into the website as well with audio and the ability to Fullscreen so that the viewer could fully relate to the story being told through the video.
- Audio – the only audio present is from the aforementioned embedded YouTube video; all other videos were muted as audio was not needed from them.

- Table and lists – the website features tables and lists which assort information neatly and concisely for the reader to grasp.
- Borders – borders were used around text and images/videos so that viewers' eyes are drawn easier to the information between them.
- iframes – this is a HTML feature that allows me to embed documents within the webpage. All videos were embedded using this method. This method also was used to embed all documents seen on the webpage, allowing users to view documents directly from the webpage without having to download and open them first to view.
